

notes from 2020

Life has changed for all of us.
What does jewellery mean in days
like these?

One positive aspect has been time
to reflect – on our lives, our choices and our impact. At Cox & Power we desire to create beautiful things that will be treasured, but most of all,
worn, enjoyed and made your own.

Over the years we've seen thousands of gemstones but we're still captivated by them. An unusual shape or colour, a stone with real fire or that indescribable "something" and we are hooked!

To visit a showcase of the jewellery featured, click here to find out more about each piece just click on the caption or image.

Gustavo studs £4450

This year has made us think about...

the small things that bring us happiness

rediscovering what we love about jewellery

acknowledging our privilege

appreciating our neighbours and loved ones

connecting with the earth

Rose Statement ring £4500

Tahiti Pearl pendant £2800

Cognac Square ring £8950

Marina necklace £11800

We'd just finished making these earrings when they were snapped up by a favourite client with a magpie eye for our favourite and newest designs.

Woven necklaces from £95

Thoughts and Experiences

Rachel

Taking up running again and seeing the sunrise through the trees with the local heron looking on.

Meeting artisanal gold miners online who I'd hoped to have met in person this year on a trip of a lifetime to Peru. International conversations remind us how interconnected we are.

Vicci

It was easy while walking the fields to remember one of my first loves – botany. My Grandmother taught me to forage in the hedgerows for nature's treasure. So I gather small posies of wild flowers/grasses and leaves in Spring and early Summer. Now it is Autumn, it's berries, seed pods and vibrantly coloured leaves.

I have enjoyed photographing rainbows too – but haven't yet found the elusive 'pot of gold'.

Recognising the importance of acquiring things which have been more meaningfully selected, items to be enjoyed for years, rather than falling for a 'quick fix' of buying things which fast become boring and are then discarded for the latest 'new'.

Tony

Quite simply this year, I found an even deeper appreciation of family, friends, community & locality.

Face coverings are now an everyday essential and the experience is made so much better with beautiful materials and fine craftsmanship.

@saragaidesigns sources kimono fabric to brighten up our work days and journeys.

Peacock Pearl necklace £8250

Work in Progress...

Revisiting the stunning Brazilian gemstones and sustainably sourced pearls we selected just before lockdown and designing new jewellery with them brings memories of new friends made with shared values. These are pieces we will always remember.

If you like what you see, get in touch and we can show you images of the ring we're making with this special indicolite tourmaline, so named for its deep blue colour.

This ring's story begins in Tanzania where the stunning garnet was discovered and Peru where the Fairtrade Gold was mined.

Moyo Gems is an ethical gemstone initiative with the Tanzanian Women Miners Association bringing improved working conditions and incomes through access to market and knowledge of the true value of the gemstones they mine.

These beautiful gemstones include ruby, tourmaline, amethyst and more, all traceable from mine to market. If you would like to commission us to make a piece of jewellery with a Moyo Gem, contact us and share your ideas.

Moyo Statement ring £4950

The choice to shop and source responsibly really starts to make sense when we see the positive impact on the people involved in the creation of our jewellery, especially in these difficult times.

Isn't it amazing to think that your jewellery links up the livelihoods and craftsmanship of people all around the world?

Opal Berry ring £6250

Stardust bracelet £8250

Tahiti Pearl ring £3500

Tapered diamond earrings £3250

Marquise ring £11500

Everybody knows jewellers are the original recyclers – we've always known that materials are too precious to waste.

We've been seeking out ways to package our jewellery with more fun, more creativity and less waste; look at these beautiful vintage matchboxes we stumbled across. Who knew they were destined for a future as a jewellery box?

Oval Forged bangles from £550

We missed our creative community in Chiltern Street during lockdown and hope you will enjoy visiting again at

Cox & Power

10–12 Chiltern Street
London W1U 7PX

coxandpower.com

get in touch at marylebone@coxandpower.com
020 7935 3530

@coxandpower

Thank you to Superbird Creative
for creating this notebook

© Cox & Power 2020.

Cox & Power designs and the Cox & Power Trademark are protected by copyright law, registered and unregistered trade marks and other intellectual property rights.
Prices are subject to change.

With our new appreciation of life we say don't let a moment or an experience go to waste

Let nothing slip through your fingers except the sand
on the seashore

